

HOT WAVE NOT YET OVER.

ALMOST AS SULTRY AS EVER YESTERDAY, AND NO RELIEF PROMISED TO-DAY.

SEVERAL DEATHS FROM THE HEAT AND A LONG LIST OF PROSTRATIONS—INTENSE SUFFERING IN THE TENEMENT-HOUSES—A LARGE AREA AFFECTED.

There was no relief from the heat for sweetening humanity yesterday, and all day long people suffered as silently as their tempers permitted. The sun was as unrelenting as if his efforts were being received with praise instead of maledictions.

There were several deaths from the heat yesterday and many prostrations. At 6 o'clock in the morning the thermometer in the streets stood at 82 degrees, and by 1 o'clock in the afternoon the mercury had climbed up to 90. At this time an occasional breeze was perceptible in the air but those on the top floors of the skyscrapers, served to make things just a little less trying. Everybody, however, suffered, though all were not equally frank in admitting the fact. Mankind on a hot day may be divided into several clearly defined classes. There are the tall, lank, comely individual who suffers in silence and says nothing about it; the rather stout, cheerful individual who complains freely, with many colorful and halts his friends to impart the intelligence that "It's the hottest yet," and other classes ranging from the amiable youth, who displays great erudition upon all subjects, and on the subject of the weather never agrees with any one, to the men who have a habit of looking at the thermometers before expressing any opinion at all.

These are glorious days for the laundries of New York. The driers and starches shirts tell their story. Those who cater to the inner man tell a different tale, however.

"Nobody cares anything but watermelon and ice cream these days," said a restaurateur yesterday. The demand for melons has been enormous and the fruit has given comfort to thousands. On the East Side it has become one of the staples of the poor, from which it is served in thin slices at a penny each.

The street dispensers of soft drinks, too, have done a thriving business this week, and the little soda-water fountains are continually surrounded by persons eager to allay their thirst.

It is on the East Side that the heat has perhaps caused the greatest suffering. In the sweatshops, in dingy tenement-houses, in which a breath of fresh air is almost a luxury, the heat has been a torment. Many people make their beds on the pavement; hundreds try to find a place of refuge in the streets. The sidewalks become nurseries, where babies fight for the choice cool places on iron cellars.

The local weather bureau was established, was September 1st, when the temperature was 78 degrees, and the suffering was not so great as it was yesterday. The hot wave of the country, so far as the East Side is concerned, is now over. The heat of the day was a large one. As the day passed there was no relief. It made no difference whether the person was in the shade or in the sun. The heat was a torment. The sidewalks become nurseries, where babies fight for the choice cool places on iron cellars.

The maximum temperature yesterday in the weather bureau was 82 degrees, and the heat was a torment. The sidewalks become nurseries, where babies fight for the choice cool places on iron cellars.

GIPSY HIGHWAYMEN FOILED.

Percy Pyne Lewis, a wealthy resident of Tarrytown, had an exciting time with highwaymen on Thursday night. Mr. Lewis was driving along North Broadway toward his home, and was a short distance north of Sleepy Hollow. He was in a very late stage of the evening. THE UNAPPRECIATED INVENTOR.

HE LOST HIS LIBERTY JUST BY WANTING TOO MUCH MONEY.

When a man comes to the box-office of Daly's Theatre two or three times in many days and asks for the addresses of certain actors of the company without being asked or willing to give any good reason for wanting to know Mr. Dorney, Mr. Daly's business manager, thought that something was wrong. But he did not think that it was anything serious. Yesterday he began to think that it was, and for several long minutes he had misgivings on the subject.

The man came to the stage door yesterday and said that he wanted to see Mr. Daly. He said that he had an appointment to see him on business. He had an appointment to see him on business. He had an appointment to see him on business. He had an appointment to see him on business.
